Murphy Miller Comment, March 2012. I believe that this is Anaise LeDoux who married Estelle (Estelly/Estellis) Fontenot.

Additionally he may have been known by Anaise or Thenaisse. Ancestry.com has a Thenaisse LeDoux with the correct parents married to Estelly Fontenot. There are several Estelle Fontenots in the Fontenot Book but none identifying her with a LeDoux husband.

As stated in the LeDoux book from the Davis Historical Encyclopedia of Louisiana

Dalicourt A. LeDoux, successfully identified with the rice industry in this section, came to his present location in 1900, and has devoted the major portion of his time and energy to raising rice and cotton. Of the former, he has been cultivating mostly the Fortuna and Nira varieties since 1927, cultivating about one hundred and eight acres in all, and of the fleecy staple he gathers from his well-tilled acreage a not inconsiderable crop each season, about thirty bales per year. He is also a successful raiser of cattle, using regular Black Poll bulls with native stock. His entire farm includes two hundred and sixty acres.

Mr. LeDoux was reared on his father's farm where he assisted in general highland farming. There he received, under the capable guidance of his father, a thorough insight into the details involved in an efficient cultivation of the soil and in farm management generally. This training, gained in the hard school of experience, has been the means of enabling him to overcome the usual difficulties encountered on the farm. From there he moved to Jefferson Davis Parish and was engaged in work as a steam engineer for four years. Afterwards he embarked in 1905, upon the career of farming for himself and has made a conspicuous success.

Mr. LeDoux was connected with the Agricultural Administration program for five years, in which work he rendered useful and intelligent service for the government. He has served as a ward committeeman, as a gravel road committeeman, and is a valued and esteemed member of the Cattlemen's Association.

Mr. LeDoux is rated as one of the stalwart and progressive members of the class of yeomanry that has contributed so largely to the rapid strides of agricultural development in this section.
